Sighting the New Crescent Moon – Linking Modern Astronomy and Islam

R. Massey

The Royal Observatory Greenwich (ROG) has acted as a resource centre for mosques in the UK, providing data on the visibility of the crescent that is essential for the Islamic calendar. A series of projects have sought to widen the connection between the ROG and the British Islamic community, engaging a ‘hard to reach’ audience with cutting edge astrophysics.